Claim Rejections - 35 USC § 102

1. The following is a quotation of the appropriate paragraphs of 35 U.S.C. 102 that form the basis for the rejections under this section made in this Office action:

A person shall be entitled to a patent unless –

(e) the invention was described in (1) an application for patent, published under section 122(b), by another filed in the United States before the invention by the applicant for patent or (2) a patent granted on an application for patent by another filed in the United States before the invention by the applicant for patent, except that an international application filed under the treaty defined in section 351(a) shall have the effects for purposes of this subsection of an application filed in the United States only if the international application designated the United States and was published under Article 21(2) of such treaty in the English language.

2. Claims 1-4,7-9,13-17,20-22,26-27 are rejected under 35 U.S.C. 102(e) as being anticipated by Miyake (US 6,474,471). Miyake disclose a packaging system comprising a container 14 having a rim adjacent element 44 defining an open end. A carrying assembly having a first portion (the area adjacent to element 42) for securely capturing the container rim and a second portion comprising a blister package. The blister package including a blister section forming a carrying handle for the system. The blister package is generally arch shaped along the top portion. The blister package includes blister sections on opposing sides (the top and bottom sides) to form the carrying handle. The blister section on the top side is formed with an enlarged perimeter portion (the indented area from the exterior side of element 12) following the generally arch shape of the blister package. The blister package has blister portions 22,24 for receiving items. A display card is in the blister package. An upper supporting surface is the interior surface of element 12. The upper supporting portion has deformation 22. The lower supporting surface is the area below the upper supporting surface and has a space 24. The cover is the area that engages the container opening.

3. Claims 1-4,7,9,13-17,20,22,26-27 are rejected under 35 U.S.C. 102(e) as being anticipated by Glassman (US 6,227,369). Glassman disclose a packaging system comprising a container 14 having a rim 20 defining an open end. A carrying assembly having a first portion 24 for securely capturing the container rim and a second portion comprising a blister package. The blister package including a blister section forming a carrying handle for the system. The blister package is generally arch shaped along the top portion. The blister package includes blister sections on opposing sides (the top and bottom sides) to form the carrying handle. The blister section on the top side is formed with an enlarged perimeter portion following the generally arch shape of the blister package. A display card is in the blister package. An upper supporting surface is the interior surface of element 12. The upper supporting portion has deformation 12a. The lower supporting surface is the area below the upper supporting surface and has a space 12. The cover is the area that engages the container opening.

Claim Rejections - 35 USC § 103

4. The following is a quotation of 35 U.S.C. 103(a) which forms the basis for all obviousness rejections set forth in this Office action:

(a) A patent may not be obtained though the invention is not identically disclosed or described as set forth in section 102 of this title, if the differences between the subject matter sought to be patented and the prior art are such that the subject matter as a whole would have been obvious at the time the invention was made to a person having ordinary skill in the art to which said subject matter pertains. Patentability shall not be negated by the manner in which the invention was made.

5. Claims 8 and 21 are rejected under 35 U.S.C. 103(a) as being unpatentable over Glassman over Miyake. Although Glassman does not disclose the location of the display card, it would have been obvious in view of Miyake to provide a display card in the package to indicate the content or information therein. Miyake disclose a packaging system comprising a container 14 having a rim adjacent element 44 defining an open end. A carrying assembly having a first portion (the area adjacent to element 42) for securely capturing the container rim and a second portion comprising a blister package. The blister package including a blister section forming a carrying handle for the system. The blister package is generally arch shaped along the top portion. The blister package includes blister sections on opposing sides (the top and bottom sides) to form the carrying handle. The blister section on the top side is formed with an enlarged perimeter portion (the indented area from the exterior side of element 12) following the generally arch shape of the blister package. The blister package has blister portions 22,24 for receiving items. A display card is in the blister package. An upper supporting surface is the interior surface of element 12. The upper supporting portion has deformation 22. The lower supporting surface is the area below the upper supporting surface and has a space 24. The cover is the area that engages the container opening.

Allowable Subject Matter

6. Claims 5-6,10-12,18-19, 23-25 are objected to as being dependent upon a rejected base claim, but would be allowable if rewritten in independent form including all of the limitations of the base claim and any intervening claims.

7. Claims 28-34 are allowed.
